something out last time in that interview. I always wanted to have my own stud farm. We are yet to find it, although I do believe we're very close."

Bax has been involved with stud farms in the past; she was part-owner of Blandford Lodge in Matamata with her parents, Graham and Helen-Gaye, and also part-owned a stud farm in Kentucky. But this time it's important to Bax that she goes it alone.

"I think when you get to a certain age you need to have your own opinions, and focus on your own immediate family," she explains. "Now I've got my kids and my hubby and we're all settled here, it's time to do that."

The model is eager to get her gumboots dirty. Put simply, Bax's job will be to research the bloodlines of stallions and mares to see if their offspring will run fast. "My ultimate goal is to breed as many Group One winners as I can," she says, referring to the more
